Generation Google Scholarship

Generation Google Scholarship: for women in gaming

Overview

The Generation Google Scholarship was established to help aspiring students pursuing computer science degrees excel in technology and become leaders in the field. Selected students will receive $10,000 USD (for those studying in the US) or $5,000 CAD (for those studying in Canada) for the 2021-2022 school year. The Generation Google Scholarship will be awarded based on the strength of each candidate's impact on diversity, equity, and inclusion, demonstrated leadership, and academic performance. The program is open to students who meet all the minimum qualifications and we strongly encourage students that identify with groups historically excluded from the technology industry, including Women, Black/African American, Hispanic/Latinx, American Indian, Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander, to apply.

Applicants are not required to currently be enrolled in an Associates, Bachelors, Masters, or PhD program for the 2020-2021 academic year to apply. Recipients of one of the following Google Scholarships: Generation Google Scholarship, Google Lime Scholarship, Google Student Veterans of America Scholarship, Women Techmakers Scholarship for Computer Science, and Women Techmakers Scholarship for Gaming are not eligible to reapply.

Who can apply?

To be eligible to apply, applicants must:

1. Intend to be enrolled in or accepted as a full-time student in a Bachelors, Masters, or PhD program at an accredited university or college in the United States or Canada for the 2021-2022 academic year
2. Be studying computer science, computer engineering, or a closely related technical field
3. Demonstrate a strong academic record
4. Exemplify leadership and demonstrate passion for improving representation of underrepresented groups in computer science and technology

Application process

1. You will be asked to complete an online application which includes:
2. General background information (e.g. contact information and details about your current and intended universities)
3. Family and household information
4. Resume/CV
5. Academic transcripts from your current (if you are currently enrolled) and prior institutions (if you have earned a prior degree)
6. Responses to three short answer essay questions
7. Recipients will be selected based on the overall strength of their essays and application materials compared to the entire applicant pool or respective academic peers (e.g. high school students compared to other high school students).

IMPORTANT: Before starting the application, please have the following ready for upload:

- PDF copy of your resume

- PDF copy of your current or most recent transcript (unofficial is acceptable)
- PDF copy of your short answer responses

Application deadline: early-December

Terms and conditions

The Generation Google Scholarship award must be spent on tuition, fees, books, supplies and equipment required for the students' classes at their primary university. Scholarship recipients must be enrolled as full time students for the 2021-2022 academic year. Enrollment will be verified after the winners are selected, and all scholarship payments will be made directly to the student to be used towards tuition and education-related expenses. We will withhold the award for any scholar who no longer meets the eligibility requirements and revoke the award for any scholar who does not maintain the eligibility requirements. Selected recipients will receive instructions from Google on how to receive the award. Failure to complete these steps by the specified deadline will disqualify recipients from receiving the award. Recipients may defer their award for up to one (1) year from the time of originally planned payment on a case by case basis as determined by Google. Google employees are not eligible to apply for Google scholarships. Persons who are (1) residents of embargoed countries, (2) ordinarily resident in embargoed countries, or (3) otherwise prohibited by applicable export controls and sanctions programs may not apply for this scholarship.

Live Your Dream Awards

Soroptimist's Live Your Dream Awards program is a unique education grant for women who provide the primary financial support for their families. Live Your Dream Awards give women the resources they need to improve their education, skills and employment prospects.

HOW TO APPLY

What We Do

Every year, Soroptimist distributes more than $2.6 million in education grants to about 1,700 women all over the world.

Over half of our Live Your Dream Awards recipients are survivors of domestic violence, trafficking or sexual assault. Nearly all of the women and families we serve have overcome enormous obstacles including poverty, teen pregnancy, and drug or alcohol addiction. Live Your Dream Awards recipients may use the cash award to offset any costs associated with their efforts to attain higher education, such as books, childcare, tuition and transportation.

Why We Do It

- Education is the pathway to economically empowering women and girls.
- When Women Learn families live healthier lives
- When Girls Go to School they are more likely to get paying jobs and their financial contributions to their families—and their nations—increase
- When Girls Have Educated Moms
 - they are more likely to be enrolled in school and to reach higher levels of education
- When Women are Educated
 - their countries are more likely to have greater economic growth

Since 1972, we've distributed more than $30 million in education grants to 30,000 women making a better life for themselves and their families.

We invest in women's education because it transforms lives and communities. The Live Your Dream Awards has been recognized for its effectiveness and long-term impact.

86% of Live Your Dream Award recipients completed their education and improved their standard of living

74% of recipients who completed their educational degree or certification secured higher-paying employment

93% of recipients report the award has increased their self-esteem

The Postdoctoral Fellowship (PostDoc) program provides up to six awards of $25,000 (plus insurance, housing & moving benefits) each year to support a two-year visiting professorship in a North American theological school, college, or university setting. Louisville Postdoctoral Fellows are accompanied by an academic mentor and a pastoral mentor. Fellows also constitute a peer learning cohort that meets a total of six times over two years.

PostDoc Eligibility

Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. or Th.D. work and received their degree by the time the postdoctoral fellowship begins in September. Preference will be given to recent Ph.D./Th.D.

graduates. Former LI Dissertation Fellows are eligible to apply for the Postdoctoral Fellowship. Scholars from the U.S. and Canada are eligible to apply, and the fellowship can be assigned to theological schools, colleges, or universities in the U.S. or Canada.

Applicants should describe their commitment to the Christian church and theological education and suggest how their doctoral work has prepared them appropriately for a career in theological school teaching. Applicants may represent a variety of academic disciplines, including, but not limited to, history, ethics, the social sciences, biblical studies, historical, systematic, and practical theology, as well as interdisciplinary studies.

In all its grantmaking, including the Postdoctoral Fellowship program, the Louisville Institute is interested in funding persons and projects with the potential to strengthen the religious life of North American Christians and their institutions while simultaneously advancing North American religious and theological scholarship.

Applicants may not submit applications to more than one Louisville Institute grant or fellowship program within the same grant year (June 1-May 31).

Questions about eligibility may be sent to Pamala Collins.

PostDoc Application Requirements

All documents must be submitted by the December 1 deadline. Upload each application requirement in *.pdf format (preferred). Transcripts must be received on or before December 1st. Recommenders must submit their letters by December 8th. If you encounter problems, contact Pamala Collins.

Applications must include:

- Applicant Information: Using the online form, provide details about your field of research, institutions you attended, relevant coursework, academic honors, pertinent teaching/employment experience, and titles/citations of publications.
- Curriculum Vitae or résumé (no more than 4 pages)
- Application Essay: In 1,500 words (double-spaced and typed in a 12-point font), describe both your interest in theological school teaching and the relationship you see between the nature of your doctoral preparation and the challenge of theological education in the twenty-first century.
- Transcripts: One official copy of each of your graduate & professional school transcripts sent by the institutions or dossier service directly to the Louisville Institute via hard copy or transcript service to info@louisville-institute.org

- Two Letters of Recommendation: When uploading your application requirements, please provide the names, email addresses and phone numbers for your recommenders. After submitting your application, LI will immediately email recommenders with a link to submit letters online. LI will notify you via email as each person successfully submits a letter. Applicants should contact their recommenders in advance to explain procedures and guidelines (below). Letters of Recommendation must be submitted by December 8th.
- Postdoctoral Mentor's Letter of Recommendation: Your faculty mentor/advisor will be asked to provide a letter of support that will assess your (1) commitment to and understanding of a vocation in theological education; (2) commitment to the church in shaping your teaching vocation; and (3) promise as a teacher and researcher in theological education. The recommender should also indicate the expected date of your graduation.
- Postdoctoral Second Letter of Recommendation: The second recommender should speak specifically to your (1) personal qualities and commitments, (2) spiritual formation, (3) service to the church, and (4) scholarly promise.

With the exception of transcripts, upload application materials through our website in *.pdf format by December 1. If you encounter problems, please email Pamala Collins.

Review and Selection Process

Every year the Louisville Institute Board appoints a selection committee to review proposals and award Postdoctoral Fellowships. Committee membership and deliberations remain confidential.

Applicants whose projects are not funded will be notified by mail as soon as possible following the adjudication process. Due to the large number of applications the Institute receives, LI Board and staff members do not provide additional feedback on declined proposals.

Fellowship application status will be announced on or before March 1, 2021. Interviews will follow for those selected to move forward in the process.

Duration of Award and Stipend

Postdoctoral Fellowships will provide a stipend of $25,000 per year for two years. Awardees will also receive housing, medical insurance, and moving expenses.

Conditions

Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to participate in all six cohort meetings (October, February, June) over the two years of the fellowship. Travel and lodging expenses for these meetings will be covered by the Louisville Institute.

Please note that Louisville Institute grantees may not simultaneously hold two grants or fellowships from Lilly Endowment-funded organizations that total more than $45,000.

Placement Procedures

Ordinarily, the Louisville Institute will place Postdoctoral Fellows in an appropriate, ATS-accredited theological school. The Institute will arrange two-year placements depending on the teaching needs of the theological school, the disciplinary expertise of the Fellows, and theological fit.

In the event a Postdoctoral Fellow accepts a full-time teaching position in a theological school, and agrees to participate fully in cohort activities, the Institute may support cohort participation, but will not provide the $25,000 stipend, housing, medical insurance, or moving expenses. The Louisville Institute will negotiate fellowship status and cohort participation on a case-by-case basis.

Cohort Meetings

Postdoctoral Fellows will meet as a cohort three times per year (for a total of six meetings). Each cohort will be facilitated by one pastor and one professor. These co-leaders will structure cohort meetings to help participants achieve the goals of the Postdoctoral Fellowship: (1) to provide an excellent first-time teaching experience in a theological school that the Institute trusts can provide a good introduction to theological education; and (2) to help Fellows more clearly understand and articulate their vocation as theological educators.

Louisville Fellows

Louisville Fellows are dedicated to the vocation of theological education, either by engaging in the lifelong development of their own imagination as theological educators or by supporting others doing the same. Postdoctoral Fellows become Louisville Fellows and are invited to attend the annual Spring Gathering on the campus of Louisville Presbyterian Seminary.

Questions

Money-Saving Lifehacks for College Students Scholarship Contest (Spring 2020)

College is a difficult transition for many students. College itself is expensive and student loan debt in the United States has ballooned to over 1.6 trillion dollars.

To make matters more difficult, this is often the first time in a student's life that they are in charge of their personal finances. Many businesses and institutions target students who receive grants and scholarships for profiteering. With high school curriculum more focused on business practices and the stock market than personal finance, college students often lose a lot of the money they set aside for college on unnecessary expenses.

We would like to help students by making a list of life-hacks and money-saving tricks to get the most out of the money set aside for college. The student who gives the most helpful advice will receive a $500 scholarship!

Scholarship Details

Write a short essay or list of tricks you've used or have heard from others to save money on college. These can be anything from ways to save money on textbooks, living expenses, dining, transportation, events, or anything else you can think of. The short essay should be around 300 words, but the word count can be more or less, we are more concerned about delivering helpful information to students!

Our favorite tips will be featured on FiGuides.com (with students' permission) and the student who writes our favorite money-saving tips will receive a $500 scholarship! The deadline for the scholarship is December 31st, 2019.

Scholarship Eligibility

This scholarship is open to candidates from the U.S. only. To qualify, you must be a current student or planning to enroll in higher education for the Spring semester:

- Graduating high school senior with college acceptance
- Current undergraduate student
- Current graduate student

Please email your college savings tips and information to Tim@FiGuides.com and include the following information:

- Name
- School you're attending/have been accepted to attend
- Major/planned major
- Expected graduation date
- Phone number
- Email address

Tips for Saving Money on Textbooks

Every semester, millions of students around the country spend way more money than necessary on textbooks. Many textbook publishers make minor updates to their books every year so they can release them as new editions. This keeps the cost of new books high while driving demand for the old editions down. These older editions of textbooks often work fine for your class since they are mostly the same book as the newer version. Before buying a new edition of a textbook, look for deals on older versions and ask your professor if those previous editions will work in their class. This won't always work because some classes are more textbook oriented than others and will require the latest edition, but it never hurts to ask!

Another way to save money on textbooks and other required reading is to see if you can find a digital copy online. Usually, these digital copies are significantly less expensive than the printed book, and in some cases, are even free! Many of these books come in PDF format so you can view them on your laptop, tablet, or even your phone! Most professors these days try to help save their students save as much money as possible on books, so if you find a great deal on a digital textbook, let your professor know. They might give you some extra credit!

If you are taking classes with friends, you probably will not all need your own copy of the textbook or required reading. Whether or not you can get away with this will depend on how your class is structured, so contact your professor before divvying up who buys which book. If it is allowed, this can save you and your friends a lot of money (some textbooks are over $300!). This strategy works best when you and your friends set aside time during the week to study together. If you have a lot of required reading to do in a week or if you won't be able to meet up with your friends for a study session, keep in mind that most universities give students between $10 and $20 for printing at the university library. You can scan the pages your group needs to read and print or save them digitally. This also helps if you are reading passages from the book in class.

What you need to know:

Scholarships are awarded for a minimum of 1.5 years and a maximum of 5 years of funding, depending on degree requirements. SMART is a one-for-one commitment; for every year of degree funding, the scholar commits to working for a year with the DoD as a civilian employee.

Undergraduate applicants

- Must be currently enrolled in a regionally accredited U.S. college or university
- Must be able to produce a fall 2020 (or earlier) college transcript at the end of the term
- AP coursework is not considered college credit

Graduate applicants

- Can be either currently enrolled in a regionally accredited U.S. college or university or awaiting notification of admission to such.
- If awaiting admission, you must be accepted for entrance in the fall 2021 term.

Post-Graduation Employment Placement

- Upon selection, awardees are assigned to a DoD facility where he/she will be expected to serve as a summer intern and complete a period of post-graduation employment service as a DoD civilian.
- Upon selection, awardees sign the SMART Service Agreement (please note this is the 2017 agreement and that future agreements are subject to change). The employment obligation to the DoD civilian Science and Technology (S&T) workforce upon graduation is a one-to-one commitment. For each academic year of a scholar's award, he/she is required to commit to one year (12 months) of civilian employment with the DoD. Scholars who fail to comply with the degree completion and conferral time lines on their application will be required to provide an increased ratio of post-graduation service to length of award. Students will be placed in DoD facilities in civilian positions and must be geographically mobile for placement following graduation.

- If a scholar fails to properly complete the post-graduation service commitment, he/she will be responsible for the prompt reimbursement of any and all funds expended under the Program by the U.S. Government on behalf of the scholar.
- Students may select up to three (3) preferred DoD facilities for placement. Every effort will be made to place awardees with one of their identified preferences, but such placement is not guaranteed. All awardees are notified of their placement upon award notification.
- A partial list of participating organizations can be found on the Sponsoring Facilities page. Updates to this list will be made periodically.
- Next: Terms & Conditions >

Types of Award

- Scholars enter the program as either Recruitment or Retention.
- Recruitment Scholars:
- Recruitment scholars are those who are not employed in a permanent civilian position by a SMART Sponsoring Facility (SF) at the time of award. Scholars who are employed by the Sponsoring Facility in temporary or internship positions at the time of award are considered recruitment scholars.
- Recruitment scholars are required to perform summer internships and complete a period of post-graduation employment at their assigned DoD Sponsoring Facility.

Retention Scholars:

- Retention scholars are those who are employed in a permanent or renewable term civilian position by the Sponsoring Facility (SF) at the time of award. Retention employment can be either full-time permanent or full-time term. This should be indicated on the SMART application under Professional Experiences.
- Retention scholars work with their DoD Sponsoring Facilities to establish a return to work schedule during the summer months. Upon graduation, they are required to return to their DoD Sponsoring Facility to complete their service commitment period.
- The DoD assists current government employees further their education and continue their careers as part of the DoD Science and Technology (S&T) workforce. For the most part, current DoD employees, if selected by their current organization, will remain employed by their current organization as retention scholars. Such applicants will be required to submit contact information for their current employer and a letter from their supervisor acknowledging that he/she is aware that the applicant is seeking funding under the SMART Program.

- Upon acceptance into the SMART Program, scholars will receive a copy of the SMART Scholar Handbook. These terms and conditions apply to scholars that have been offered and have accepted their award.
- A copy of the Scholar Handbook can be found here.

Citizenship and Security Clearances

Proof of citizenship will be required upon award. Please be advised, if family members are not U.S. citizens, some agencies may be unable to process the participant for the appropriate security clearance. Every effort will be made to assign eligible students to DoD organizations without such restrictions but alternative placement is not guaranteed. Failure to obtain and maintain a security clearance is grounds for dismissal from the SMART Program. Applicants must be citizens of the United States, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, or United Kingdom at time of application.

Employment Suitability

Applicants will be subject to an employment suitability determination. Suitability is defined as identifiable character traits and conduct sufficient to determine whether an individual is likely or not likely to be able to carry out the duties of a Federal job with appropriate integrity, efficiency, and effectiveness.

At ZipHearing, we strive to give as much information as possible to others on advances in hearing technology. We work every day to ensure that hard of hearing individuals can get the best hearing devices and advice.

Losing your hearing is a life-changing experience and we believe that having access to devices developed using the latest research is crucial for hard of hearing individuals. Finding a device that suits the person can take some trial and error, so we offer free trials as well as connecting them with local care providers.

Awareness of hearing health is fundamental; we know too well how hard of hearing individuals can struggle with their education, and how hard of hearing people are not always understood or empathized with. As well as inspiring empathy and knowledge, using the correct terminology and knowing how to offer help to those affected is important.

As part of our ambition to raise awareness, we are offering a scholarship to the student who can best explore the importance of hearing health in a well researched and empathetic written piece. Please see our previous winners on this page who have made incredible contributions to our awareness push.

Scholarship Amount The scholarship award is for $1000.

EXAMPLE TEACHER ESSAY

So I've decided I want to be an English teacher.

One day in my Freshman English class, I looked at my fellow students and decided that I wanted to be a teacher. We were reciting monologues from Romeo and Juliet, and hardly anyone around me had theirs memorized. The classroom was full of an oppressive and awkward silence before my teacher told us to sit back down with a heavy sigh. I couldn't understand how someone could be so flippant when it came to their grade. I thought that maybe if I became a teacher, I could help inspire them to put in the effort.

I've enrolled in honors and AP English courses throughout high school, and I've joined the creative writing club to continue my hobby of storytelling. As a Senior I finally set this direction of my life in stone by applying to colleges as an English major. It feels like the small, innocuous dream of my Freshman self is finally coming true. Despite all this, part of me knows being a teacher may not be the smartest career choice. Teachers don't get paid a whole lot— I've known many who live in shabby apartments and stay up late grading papers well into the morning, coffee in hand. Many claim that kids are hard to work with, especially high school students, who are full of hormones and rebellion and distrust of authority. The rewards hardly outweigh the costs, some say, with the long hours, too-full classrooms, the low pay and the troublemaker kids. They can't understand why anyone would want to subject themselves to that.

But what they don't understand is that I've long since accepted the lackluster aspects of teaching. I've had since Freshman year to mull it over, to discuss with many teachers I look up to about what they think. Every last teacher I talked with told me the same thing: that the reason they became a teacher wasn't for the pay, or for any physical rewards. In reality, teaching is just as much of a learning experience for the teacher as it is for the students. With every essay read teachers learn a little more, and add a new perspective to their ever-growing view of the world. Freshman year I couldn't understand why my friends didn't memorize their monologues, but now I see that there are a million reasons why someone might not. And with that, another mystery of the world is solved. The universe is a little closer to fitting into my jacket pocket.

Being a teacher is like being a thousand people all at once. It is about understanding, and compassion, and knowing all voices should equally be heard. The voice of the youth is the voice of the future, and I want to hear what they have to say. That is the real reason I want to be a teacher: because I know I still have so much more to learn, from people who often aren't considered worth listening to.
