The initiative of scholarship is like a boon to these students, who do not hail from affluent backgrounds. Therefore, Robert has announced the scholarship money of $1,000 to help the students who want to pursue higher education in the US.

Robert Trosten is extremely aware of the fact that advanced education in the US is quite expensive in comparison to the other countries in the world. When it comes to the college or university fee, it is exorbitant and beyond the rich of middle-class students in America, who chase the dream of higher education or advanced degree for a lucrative career in the days to come. Simultaneously, Robert Trosten knows that higher education in the United States is at the core of building and developing a successful career in the days to come, for these students.

When Robert realized this, he came up with the Robert Trosten Scholarship program with the cordial gesture of helping these US poor students. The initiative will help them enroll for higher studies and stand out from the crowd without fretting over expensive college or university fees. After all, all have the right to better education in the country, be it rich or poor.

Robert Trosten is quite aware that spending on higher course fees for advanced education is somewhat challenging, unfeasible to speak candidly in the US, for those candidates hailing from average or low-income families in the country. To be honest, the students from poor financial backgrounds have no choice but to opt for high-interest education loans from banks or other financial agencies in the country in comparison with their rich peers coming from rich, affluent families, who have no hassles paying for their higher education fees. That is the reason why Robert Trosten Scholarship was initiated in the first place, which is a talent-based and merit-oriented reward program for these poor students, who have the brains but not the money to fulfill higher education dreams.

The scholarship program is very favorable, as the poor students receive financial assistance. They're not expected to return the money unlike when they take a lofty education loan from a bank or financial agency in the US. It is nothing but a one-time monetary help or prize money for the most brilliant, talented, and deserving students who write an outstanding essay with a word limit of 700-850 on the topic, "How can we adapt the school systems to make it more accessible for students with neurological disabilities?"

Robert Trosten is an accomplished, talented business leader who is conscious that higher education is unquestionably the most important and vital aspect as far as building a successful career is concerned. However, the expensive fees involved in pursuing higher studies in the United States seem to be escalating every year and many American students are finding it extremely challenging and unworkable to opt for higher education all alone without any financial assistance or scholarship.

Taking into mind such financial challenges of the students, he has initiated the Robert Trosten Scholarship with the righteous goal of assisting the most deserving and brilliant student in lessening his or her financial stress to prevail over the financial responsibility of costly education in the reputed educational institutions in the country.

Robert Trosten started the scholarship program, as he is aware that most of the candidates fall short of paying for the expensive college education alone with no aid from others. They realize that they can't complete all the necessary financial conditions. Robert Trosten scholarship is talent-oriented, merit-based prize money for the justly deserving candidate, who has intellect but not the funds to chase higher studies in the United States.
