Chairman's Corner

June 2009

Well this month marks the half way point for the year. It really is just flying by. June is a very important month for our Tribe. Our elections are just a few days away. And I would like to encourage each of you to come out and cast your vote. This is your privilege and please know that your vote is very important.

Last month I traveled to Washington, DC for an NIHB Board meeting which was very productive. I then traveled to Marksville, LA to the Tunica Biloxi Tribe for our semi-annual USET Board meeting. We also had the privilege of hosting the NRCS American Indian Program Delivery Initiative Conference at Wind Creek Casino.

In the coming months we will celebrate our Independence in July and also celebrate our Federal Recognition in August which just so happens to be the 25th anniversary. Watch the newsletter for more information regarding both events.

As our summer is just beginning kids are out of school and families will be headed off for vacation. Please be safe in your adventures and I hope to see you June 6th at the Elections. Again please vote!

An Introduction To The Planning Department

By Gayle Johnson and Kenny Shivers

The Planning Department is one of the most vital Tribal departments yet it is one that most Tribal Members may not be aware of. It is through the Planning Department that additional funds are secured to enhance and support the services provided to Tribal Members by the 638 contracts and Tribal Government. The 638 contracts consist of base federal funding received and administered yearly through various programs of the Tribe.

The Planning Department is responsible for researching grant solicitations to identify grants that match funding needs and could enhance services provided to Tribal Members. After this extensive and sometimes tedious research, Kenny Shivers, Planning Director, and his staff will meet with the Grants Team to review all grant opportunities to decide which grants/funding are feasible and worth pursuing. The Grants Team is made up of the Planning Director, Community Development Planner, Administrative Assistant, Tribal Administrator, Special Assistant to the Tribal Administrator, Special Health Projects Coordinator, Federal Accounting Controller, CFO, Environmental Director, Education Executive Director, and the Economic Development Coordinator for CIE. After the Grants Team examines and discusses the grant opportunities, Tribal Resolutions are prepared for selected grants and presented to the Tribal Council for approval prior to submitting grant applications to the appropriate funding agencies.

Along with Kenny Shivers, Planning Director, Denise Young, Community Development Planner, is responsible for the preparation of grant applications and proposals. Anna Wilson, Administrative Assistant, is responsible for all administrative support functions, including the maintenance of grant files, processing purchase orders, assisting with budget and financial records, and many other duties. Ellen O'Barr, Land & Real Estate Coordinator, is responsible for maintaining all Tribal land files and records, which includes deeds, coordination of tax payments, maps, and other land documents.

Kenny and his staff work closely with Tribal Administration, Department Directors and program staff in the development and submission of the grant proposals. In 2008, the Tribe submitted nineteen grant applications; eleven were awarded. When asked about the award vs. application ratio, Kenny said "We always hope to see at least a 50% award ratio, hopefully higher! Last year was a very good year for the Tribe in terms of grant awards. Arelene Mack, Special Health Projects Coordinator, is no longer in the Planning Department but in Health Administration. However Arelene is still very active in writing grants. Last year the Tribe received grant awards that have helped staff a full-time paid fire department, purchase new communications equipment for Tribal police and firefighters, provide assistance preparing income tax returns, fund youth programs, library services, cultural programs, enhance eye care services and new cooking equipment for the SAIL Center. This year looks to be a good year as well. With the economic stimulus recovery program, funding opportunities have drastically increased. We have submitted fourteen grant applications so far this year; we expect to easily exceed last year's number of submissions by the end of June. Once grants have been submitted it is usually a three to six month waiting process before we receive award notification. We expect Tribal programs will greatly benefit from the economic stimulus recovery program."

Planning Staff: Seated Kenny Shiver; standing L-R Anna Wilson, Ellen O'Barr, and Denise Young

In addition to his duties as Planning Director, Kenny is responsible for the administration of the Other Aid To Tribal Government (OATTG) 638 contract that provides supportive services to Tribal Government. He is also the project manager for the Tribal Archive Project funded through the Institute of Museum and Library Services. It is through this grant that important Tribal historical records and artifacts will be identified, collected, recorded and archived. A new Tribal Archives will be located in the new Community Cultural Education Center/Museum that is currently under construction. He is also project manager for the Indian Community Development Block Grant (ICDBG) that is providing partial funding for the construction of that building. "Most of the Tribal buildings have been constructed through ICDBG grants, or through partial payments through ICDBG."

In closing Kenny says "Although the work we do is often tedious and time consuming, it is great to look out and see the end result of our hard work. We are proud to look out and see the new full-time fire fighters. We enjoy seeing our youth participating in sports activities as well as the after school, summer youth and cultural programs. My staff and I are all proud to have been instrumental in some small way of securing funding that is needed to enhance the services provided to our Tribal Members that enable them to improve their life styles and provide for their children."

An Indian Version of the Twenty-Third Psalm

Submitted by Ann Maynard (2007)

Father, guardian of earth and the heavens
Along with all things, I am your creation
You are the tree of life, I am a branch
Flowering, thankful and contented.
The marvels, the natural elements you have made
I am in wonder and reverence about them.
Through your love and guidance,
You give me a precious vine to hold onto.
It is the thread of life to follow.
It leads me satisfied among the fragrant meadows
and calm waters.
It is you who has provided the fruits of life
And I am happy.

You provide my sustenance, nourishment, from the land, water, and the air.
I am blessed. I give thanks for all.
I am satisfied. My bowl is plenty.
You are the Spirit at our center.

With you I am strong, my heart good,
Sometimes it is not easy, this life's road
Strength and direction to carry on
To pursue a path of goodness
And to care for others.

Life is but a part of the cycle
A beginning, as with all things in time.
I know I must leave behind this earthly life
Entering another journey
That I will travel with no fear
For you are with me ~ now; then; and forever.

Bad times come with the good,
But good will prevail.
I speak from the heart.
I have done my best to follow the good path,
Ready for the next journey.
I am prepared.

It is then, in the great heavenly lodge
Rejoining my relative, with pride in a life liven,
That I will humbly present myself Spirit Father
In heaven, as on earth ~ forever.

ETHICS CORNER

By Carrie Martin, Ethics Board Chair

Greetings from the Ethics Board:

Time seems to be flying by. Here we are already into June with family vacations and reunions right around the corner. We hope everyone is able to get outside and enjoy this beautiful weather we are having

Financial fraud/or financial impropriety is one or more intentional acts developed to deceive other people and cause them financial loss.

Did you know?

1. The estimated cost of fraud in America exceeds $100 billion annually.
2. 85% of fraud against companies involves former or current employees, suppliers, or customers.
3. Organizations lose approximately 6% of their revenue to occupational fraud and abuse.
4. Cash is the most frequent targeted asset.
5. Majority of occupational frauds are ongoing.
6. Most effective way of detecting occupational fraud is through tips and complaints.

What are some ways fraud occurs?

1. Forging or unauthorized alteration of a document or account.
2. Forging or unauthorized alteration of a check, bank draft, or other financial documents
3. Misappropriation of funds, securities, supplies, assets, including employee time.
4. Improper handling of money or reporting of financial transactions
5. Profiting as a result of inside knowledge of company business and activities.
6. Unauthorized disclosure of confidential information to outside sources.
7. Unauthorized disclosure of investment activities that the company is currently engaged in or is being considered.
8. Accepting or seeking anything of material value from contractors, vendors, or other persons providing services or materials to the company, except as permitted by policy.
9. Inappropriately destroying, removing, or using records, furniture, fixtures or equipment.
10. Failure to provide financial records when requested.
11. Failure to disclose conflicts of interest.
12. Any other dishonest act regarding finances of the company.

This is just a short list of items which are defined as financial impropriety.

One of the standards of conduct in the Ethics Code is Financial Disclosure. The standard states:

Any Tribal Official or key employee against whom an ethics complaint has been filed alleging FINANCIAL IMPROPRIETY shall file a financial disclosure statement on a form approved by the Tribal Council. Upon review of the financial disclosure statement, the Ethics Officer may seek an order from the Ethics Board for an audit of the Tribal Official's or key employee's finances. Failure to file the financial disclosure statement, submit to an ordered audit, or provide truthful information on the financial disclosure statement shall be a violation of this Code.

You may obtain a copy of the ethics code or request an advisory opinion form as well as complaint form by contacting the Chairman's office, Tribal Court, or Legal Department.

He received a doctorate in soil genesis and classification from the University of Florida.

Rare Orchid Found

Submitted by Laura Cook, Environmental Director

Poarch Creek has some unique plants. Recently, this orchid was found growing in one of our pitcher plant bogs. One pitcher plant bog is located across the road from the new waste treatment plant and the other one is located at Magnolia Branch. The Environmental Department has to burn them off each year before the new growth begins to alleviate a lot of the noxious weeds around them.

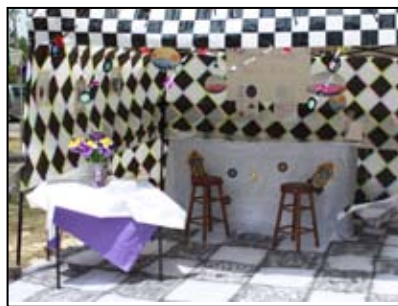

Pitcher plants are getting pretty rare so the department is really trying to preserve what we have. Now if we can just get more orchids growing that will be great. This is just one of the many things the Environmental Department does that many people are not aware of.

We are constantly helping the contractors at Wind Creek to meet all compliance regulations also and that helps the Tribe as it grows to let the Federal officials know Poarch Creek is "on top of things".

Relay Campaign 2009

By Gayle Johnson, Team Captain

The Relay For Life Team would like to say "Mvto" to everyone for their support and donations during the 2009 fundraising campaign. We would also like to thank the Endowment Committee for their donation to this cause. Our total donation to the American Cancer Society was $12,176.50, which made our team the top fund raiser for this event.

The theme for this year's campaign was "It's Time For A Cure" and we selected the "Nifty Fifties Soda Shop" as our campsite theme. During the event there were numerous special theme laps that required special attire. Everyone turned out for the Alabama/Auburn lap! It was great fun to see the 'costumes' and creative attire that were worn for special laps such as the Groovy Lap, the Pre-Historic Lap, the Sports Lap, and even the 80's Big Hair Lap. Lori Findley, with the help of her aunt, Deloris Kelley, even made her costumes on site; they were very creative!

There were games and team activities held throughout the night. One of the first team events was "Gator Wrestling". A member for each team had to wrestle the gator! The gator turned out to be an inflatable float; the ultimate winner would be the person who deflated the "gator" in the least amount of time. I was our team representative for this activity. What can I say, the "gator" won! One of the most interesting events of the night was the building of the Home Lodge Home. Each team provided supplies that were to be forwarded to the Joe Lee Griffin Hope Lodge in Birmingham, AL at the end of the campaign. Cornerstone Homebuilders sponsored the "Building Hope" activity that required each team to take their supplies and build a "home".

The "homes" were then judged on square footage, uniqueness of design, and structural stability. The outcome was really something to see. The creativity of the teams were beyond my wildest imagination. We are proud to say that we won this contest. As winners of this activity Cornerstone Homebuilders donated $50 to our Relay Team.

The Luminaria Ceremony at 9:00 p.m. was as moving and touching as ever; it is during this ceremony that we reflected on those we have lost to this dreadful disease as well as those loved ones who are survivors or who are currently fighting the battle. Cancer has touched all of us in some way, no one is immune. I close by again saying "Mvto" to everyone for their continued support of our team. Cancer never takes a break, nor do we. We will soon be gearing up for the 2010 campaign and hope to have your continued support.
