RESPECT THE RACCOON, RECYCLE

Meet Willy Wotko,

[Wotko, Creek for Raccoon,
Pronunciation: Wad-go]

the spirited raccoon who's become a champion for recycling! Born in Poarch, Alabama, Willy has always had a knack for turning trash into treasure. His sharp eyes and nimble paws make him an expert at finding recyclables left behind by his "litter" mates.

Growing up in the lush woodlands of Poarch, Willy was fascinated by the way nature recycled everything, from fallen leaves to decaying logs. This inspired him to learn more about how humans could do their part in protecting the environment. Willy soon discovered the world of recycling and made it his mission to spread the word about its importance. His adventures take him from schoolyards to city parks, where he teaches kids and adults alike the value of recycling.

Willy's message is simple yet powerful: everyone can make a difference. Whether it's recycling a single bottle or starting a community program, Willy encourages everyone to take small steps that lead to big changes. With Willy Wotko leading the charge, a cleaner, greener future is just around the corner.
